
January 22, 2007

▶ LATEST HEADLINES

Office Media to Install The WSJ Office Network across United States

Office Media Network said today that in agreements with eleven new partners, the company will install The WSJ Office Network in more than 90 office buildings throughout the country. The deal marks the debut of The WSJ Office Network, developed by Office Media and Dow Jones & Co., in the Philadelphia, Boston, Dallas, Atlanta, Connecticut and New Jersey markets. Office Media's new partners include HRPT Properties Trust, L&L Acquisitions, OSEB Associates, and the Chicago Board of Trade Building. The WSJ Office Network will provide the latest news from the Wall Street Journal Office Network, developed by Office Media, on high definition large flat screen panels in public areas of premier office properties.